Forecast For Wales
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 0400 on Monday 12 Jul 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
Early light rain in southern parts. Heavy showers possible later.

Today:
Patchy light rain in the south slowly clears through the morning, while the north stays drier. Sunny spells and scattered showers develop across the country during the afternoon. Some of these may be heavy and pose a risk of thunder. Maximum temperature 21 deg C (70 deg F).

Tonight:
Showers ease through the evening to leave a largely dry night. Longest clear spells forming during the early hours but low cloud leading to intermittent upland fog. Minimum temperature 12 deg C (54 deg F).

Tuesday:
Widely dry on Tuesday morning with sunny spells. Patchy cloud generating some showers through the afternoon, but turning sunny in the north and west later. Feeling warm in any sun. Maximum temperature 23 deg C (73 deg F).

Outlook for Wednesday to Friday:
Mostly dry and often sunny. Slightly cloudier on Thursday, with a little drizzle possible early on. A few fog patches may form each night. Gradually warming through this period.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.